

Gold Facial Spa

Gold is probably the most famous chemical element around the world. If you ask around, not many people will tell you they never heard of it.

For many centuries, it's been used as currency, before the invention of paper money (which was made because of lack of gold), in jewelry, and in many industry areas. It's still considered the basis for the monetary standard and it's universally traded around the world.

Very dodgy name aside this treatment is said to maintain the skin's youthfulness. It is said the Cleopatra slept every night in a golden mask and this has inspired this unique but expensive treatment that is based on the Queen of the Nile experience. Paper-thin squares of 24-karat gold are applied to the face along with hydrating compounds. This will leave skin tighter and more supple.
